GROWING GOOD AZALEAS

They will grow in full sun or in the shade, the sun brings out the bright colors. Can be used as a pot or tub plant. Azaleas want acid soil, and they love peat-moss. Use plenty of it when you plant out your plants. We use peat-moss leaf-mold and cow manure as a mixture in planting our azaleas. In the spring we apply an application of a good plant fertilizer, keep well watered during dry spells.

If you have red spider or scale on your azaleas, spray with Volck. Using it one to fifty. Red spider turns the leaves yellow and red, scale turns the leaves and wood a blackish color.

Camellias are easy to grow, if a few simple rules are followed. First, never lift the plants that you buy, by the stem, in handling them. Second, plant the plants on firm hard ground, so that they cannot in later years settle lower in the ground. Third, do not plant too deep in the ground, we always keep the plant one inch higher then it was growing at the nursery. Fourth, leave burlap and nails in the ball so the soil will remain firm and not crumble. Fifth, have the hole wide enough so that you can use plenty of good soil, mixed with peat-moss around the plant, water well and keep it watered during all dry spells the first year.

If the leaves turn yellow, end of the branches die and the plant set very heavy with buds, you have no doubt set your plant too deep in the ground, they will have to be lifted and cut back about  $\frac{1}{4}$  of the plant.

For scale and red spider spray with Volck. One to Fifty, if you have only a light infestation of scale, use the Volck one to seventy-five.

We fertilize our plants early in the spring, in June and a light application in the fall. Keep the plants well watered.
